THE PROSPECT SCHOOL AND CENTER FOR RESEARCH AND EDUCATION ARCHIVES RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP

The University of Vermont Libraries Special Collections houses the records of the Prospect School and Center for Research and Education. To encourage faculty, independent researchers, and students to use these materials, the Prospect School and Center for Research and Education Archives will award one $2,000 research fellowship per year. Preference will be given to projects that develop Prospect’s philosophy and methodology and projects that connect with current educational issues.

Eligibility: The fellowships are open to scholars, students, and independent researchers. Researchers are limited to one funded proposal every three years and priority is given to those not previously funded.

The Awards: The $2,000 research fellowship will be awarded as a reimbursement for travel and lodging expenses. These fellowships do not support travel to locations other than Burlington. In return for accepting support, each fellow is required to include appropriate acknowledgment in any work produced with the assistance of this support. A copy of each resulting published work must be sent to Special Collections.

Application Procedures: Deadline for applications is February 15, 2015. Recipients will be notified by April 1, 2015. Please mail a completed application form with three sets of the following materials:

1. A brief essay (2-4 pages) describing your research interests and specific goals of your proposed project.
2. A brief (2-3 page) vitae.
3. A letter of reference attesting to the significance of the research
