My dear Sam

I enclose the letters you wish, with others which may be of service.

The impression you make in a personal interview will of course, do much to determine the degree of interest these gentlemen may take - you believe, & I have no doubt they will give you their names. Letters generally avoid little unless supported by personal application.

You
may speak of your knowledge of languages to Mr Barney in a way to be of use & perhaps to help you to even
